

The APPG on Stem Cell Transplantation and the APPG on Medical Research

Harnessing stem cells for patients and economic growth

Hosted by David Burrowes MP

Tuesday 15 July 2014

12:30pm to 2pm

Dining Room A, House of Commons

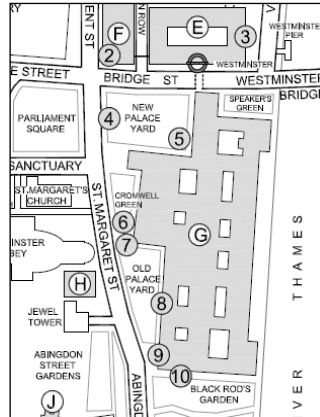

Agenda:

- Welcome – David Burrowes MP
- Introduction by the Chair – Lord Leslie Turnberg
- Treating Parkinson's Disease with stem cells - Dr Roger Barker, Principal Investigator, Cambridge Stem Cell Institute
- Cord blood cells for immunotherapies – Dr Aurore Saudemont, Senior Immunotherapy Researcher, Anthony Nolan Research Institute
- How we can best promote regenerative medicine in the UK - Dr Rob Buckle, Director, UK Regenerative Medicine Platform
- Stem cells and regenerative medicine: Department of Health perspective - Emyr Harries, Health Science & Bioethics, Department of Health
- Growing a UK cell therapy industry, delivering health and wealth – Keith Thompson, Chief Executive, Cell Therapy Catapult
- Roundtable discussion Chaired by Lord Leslie Turnberg
- Closing remarks – Mark Tami MP

General information

Location: Dining Room A, House of Commons, Westminster, London, SW1A 0AA

Once inside Westminster Hall there will be security guards to ask for directions.

Entry to the House of Commons is down the walkway at Cromwell Green (number 6 on this map).

If you have any questions or problems finding the venue please call Martin Turner on 0793 929 2227.

Format: Roundtable discussion meeting. Lunch will be served at the table from 12:30pm.

Dress code: Business attire

About the APPG on Medical Research

The All Party Parliamentary Group on Medical Research was established in December 2005 to provide an ongoing forum and network for Parliamentarians with an interest in medical research and the medical research sector. It is supported by the Medical Research Council (MRC), Academy of Medical Sciences (AMS), Arthritis Research UK, Cancer Research UK, Wellcome Trust and Association of Medical Research Charities (AMRC) which coordinates the group's secretariat.

About the APPG on Stem Cell Transplantation

The All Party Parliamentary Group on Stem Cell Transplantation works to inform parliamentarians about the use of stem cell transplantation in saving lives, and to promote the expansion of stem cell donation in the UK. The group's secretariat is coordinated by Anthony Nolan, the UK's blood cancer charity.